

By DE WITT MAC KENZIE
London, Oct. 30.—Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, chief draftsman of the covenant of the new League of Nations, believes that the creation of a new international authority—a real barrier against war—must be the immediate concern of the Allies as soon as this conflict is ended.

My friends of the left want great economic and social reforms," he told me during a conversation in his London home. "They hold that there will be no more if there is enough reform under way.

"However, this seems to me to be putting the cart before the horse. They cannot convince large numbers of nations to launch into great reforms forthwith, for reforms must depend on peace.

"We must make the people feel that further war will be prevented. Then the prestige acquired will help get social reforms carried through.

"This is the great thing nations must consider. We must have supremacy over war in order to get reforms. Unless you can create a secure base for your reforms they will be swept aside in the next convulsion."

Cecil believes that what is left of the League of Nations provides a nucleus for a new international organization. At the same time, no one has been more outspoken than this world figure in criticism of the short-comings of the league which he helped to create.

Back at the commencement of the Chinese-Japanese war, Cecil told me in New York in certain terms that unless members of the league pulled up their socks, it would come a cropper. Well, they didn't pull up their socks, and the league came a terrific cropper as he had foreseen.

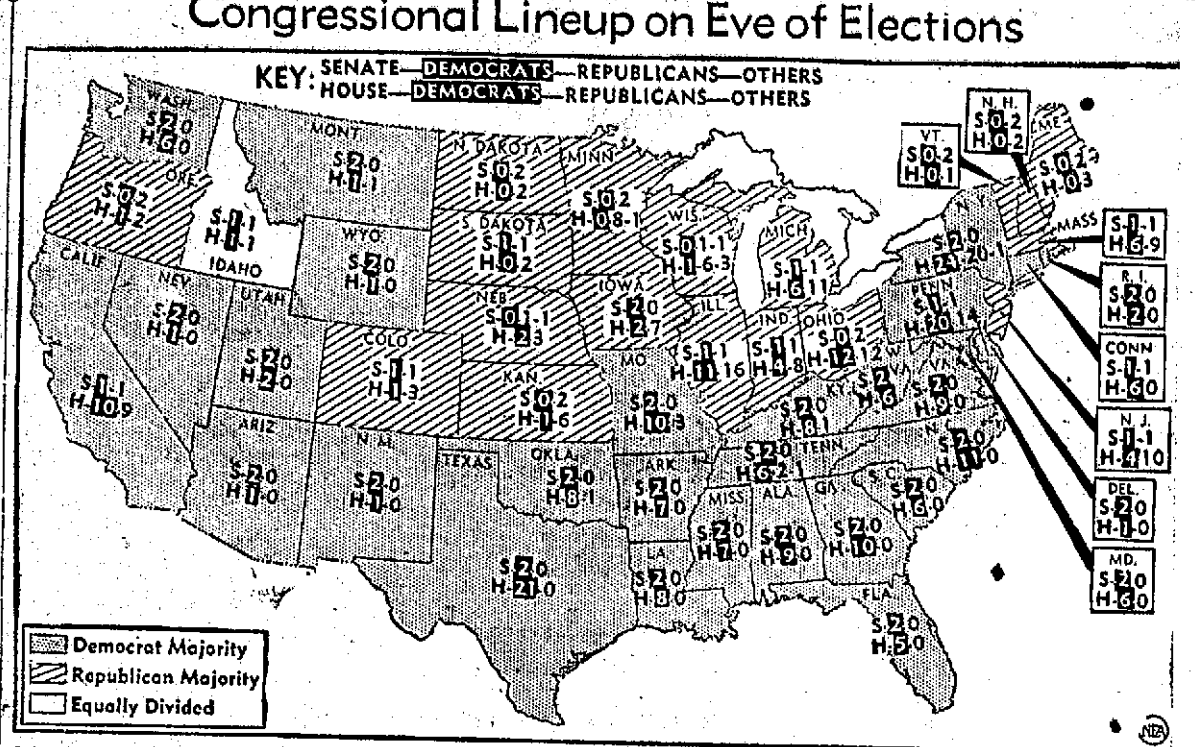

Now he is anxious to help create an organization which shall lack the faults of the last. He would use the great marble palace on the shores of Lake Geneva to house a new and better order rather than as a mausoleum for dead hopes.

"Some central international control must be created. I would use such parts of the League of Nations as exist now—like the economic and labor sections—as the nucleus of a new organization," he declared.

"There must be a two-fold organization. First, you must have in the league all the nations, big and little, which you can trust. Then there must be a smaller committee, probably comprised of four great powers—America, Britain, Russia and China—who maintain peace. It is better to have a small committee than a big one. It is less cumbersome."

"When you get real peace you some day will have Germany, Italy and Japan back in the league. But they can't be entrusted with arms for a long time to come."

"The older Germans are averse to war but the younger are Hitlerites. We must maintain control in Germany until the new generation can be educated. So far as Italy is concerned, there seems to be a general rejection of Fascism. We should get the league functioning with peace. There are a lot of things we can't do without it. For instance, we must feed the

Describes Storm-Torn Arkansas Town

The following description of Berryville's tornado was provided by Miss Clyde Greenhaw, city editor of the Harrison Times, who accompanied the first outside ambulance crew into the community after the storm.

By MISS CLYDE GREENHAW
Berryville, Oct. 30.—(AP)—When I arrived here with the doctors from Harrison last night everything was pitch black except for a few flashlight and lanterns.

The town was strewn with debris and wreckage and we couldn't tell where the streets stopped or started. The entire west side of town was just a level area of twisted timber.

Rescue workers were pulling people out from under the timber. All those that weren't hurt were helping and didn't have time to talk.

The bodies that I saw were all mangled, some of them pretty badly. It seemed like everybody that was hurt had cuts or lumps

Clayton Knight Committee Recruits American Fliers

New York, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The little office that popped up in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel soon after Britain went to war with Germany was very mysterious.

Behind its doors, men and secretaries bustled with papers, telephoning and hush-hush activity. There was a constant stream of visitors.

Inquiries about the project were singularly unlightening. The only word was that it was "the Clayton Knight committee—a name which had appeared publicly heretofore mainly in the lower right-hand corner of striking aviation pictures.

As the weeks went by, similar offices appeared in hotel suites, right across the country—in Memphis, Cleveland, Chicago, Kansas City, San Antonio, Los Angeles—each cryptically designated only as "the Clayton Knight committee."

There was a pause, and then from low down in the old armchair came homely, "Perhaps the Germans themselves will shoot Hitler and the French will guillotine Laval."

Sees Post-War Boom or Total Collapse of U.S.

By JAMES MARLOW
A. GREGG ZIELKE
New York, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Men are sitting at the wishing well, hoping that after the war America will lead the world into prosperous years.

Some are planning now to make the wish a reality. For instance, some sections of industry and some political thinkers.

Others—among them, Professor Sumner H. Slichter of Harvard university—are trying to analyze the prospect of those post-war years.

But all of them know that prosperity will hinge upon employment of those millions of workers whose war jobs will end when war ends, plus those other millions in non-war jobs.

In one of the most searching analysis so far, what may lie over the peace horizon, Slichter says in his study, "postwar boom or collapse," published in the Harvard Business Review.

The problem of maintaining employment after the war falls into principal parts: (1) the problem of transition, of shifting from a huge rate of government spending back to private spending and (2) the long-run problem of keeping busy a far larger and more permanent plant than ever before.

Here are some of the factors which he believes are shaping the problem of transition:

Deferred demand, which can be described not only as the post-war desire for things which could not be obtained in wartime but also as the purchasing power with which to acquire them:

"Total volume of deferred demand in the United States may be $9.7 billion by the middle of 1943 and $25 billion by the middle of 1944."

"If the war continues to the middle of 1945, deferred demand will be close to $30 billion."

"Shortages abroad are impossible to estimate... but it is safe to assume two years hence they will be more than double the shortages in the United States and probably more than three times the shortages here."

"Unquestionably at the end of the war the world will be confronted with the largest shortages of goods in its history."

NEW YORK STOCKS
New York, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The few courageous buyers in today's stock market worked up a fair demand for air transports while permitting most leaders in other sections to shift for themselves over a narrow range.

Individual situations, having to do with earnings and dividend prospect, served as bolstering influence for selected issues but bullishness again was more or less channeled into apprehension regarding the Battle of the Solomons. The usual Friday lightening of commitments for week-end protection also served as a brake on general recovery.

The list was moderately advanced at the start. Dealings then turned sluggish and scattered pivots slipped. In the final hour slightly irregular quotations were the rule. Transfers were in the vicinity of 100 million shares.

At 10:30 a.m. a news dispatches had quoted anonymous responsible sources that there would be an economic boss to direct the anti-inflation fight. But the President's message to Congress did not mention such an authority.

On Oct. 30 President Roosevelt announced the appointment of Supreme Court Justice Byrnes as economic director to head the anti-inflation campaign.

Belated Alibi
Berlin, announcing that artillery bombardment will be substituted for the costly frontal assaults on Stalingrad, pointed out that "the strategic objective of the German offensive, namely the Volga, was reached years ago."

The German spokesman did not mention that the Nazi hold on the Volga is tenuous so long as Russia holds Stalingrad. Nor did he explain why the fact that Hitler suffers a dangerous physical defeat so long as his utmost might has failed to subdue the city named after Josef Stalin.

We nominate the Battle of Stalingrad as this war's second contribution to the list of decisive battles in world history. The Battle of Britain was the first. The coming Battle of Germany will be the third.

BEER

- 1: Beer pays its way in taxes
More than $100,000 a month. Bootleggers inevitably follow attempts at prohibition, pay nothing—cost hundreds of thousands in enforcement. Last year, the legal beer industry paid into Arkansas' coffers more than $1,300,000!
- 2: How Arkansas USES Beer Taxes
In public health, in charity work: $661,000 of beer taxes are used; $445,226 goes to the schools; $219,540 is spent for farm agencies. (Latest figures.) Where would these funds come from if beer were not legal?
- 3: The State needs Beer's Taxes
You—and you—and you—would dig down deeper to make up the loss of beer tax benefits. Educational, school, farm programs might suffer. And the employment given by beer adds $7,000,000 to the payrolls of Arkansas.

Women Take Places of Men Around Circus

Present world conditions have made many changes in the routine and personnel of the circus as with most vocations. When Danley Bros. Circus comes to Hope for performances Monday, Nov. 2nd, the predominance of women around the aggregation will be very noticeable since they now fill almost every executive position with the institution and have proven efficient and capable.

For several reasons the number of female performers has been increasing while the number of men with a circus have decreased. This is due to two facts. The public prefers to see girls and women in the circus ring. The circus manager also prefers the female performers as they have repeatedly proved their worth in many ways. They are the most daring performers, never hesitating to try out any feat that may be suggested regardless of the danger. For instance, "the iron jaw" act, where the performer is suspended from the top of the tent and spins around hanging by her teeth, it is always a girl or woman that performs the act. No one ever saw a man do it. There are other similar acts where the same is true. Every one of the sensation and dangerous stunts seen on Danley Bros. two hour circus program is performed by a female artist.

SABOTAGE
CHAPTER XVII
THE news that Lincoln's great charging center, 210-pound Heavy Underwood, had suffered two broken ribs in a plane crack-up on Monday morning, was enough to upset the whole city and half the state.

The other half of the state, on the contrary, was elated. If Underwood was out of Thursday's game against State U., then State U. had a new cause to hope!

"The gambling gents," quoth Elmer Summers in his Journal column next morning, "are revising their bets all over town. Your scribe heard last midnight that an estimated hundred thousand—in ciphers, 100,000—dollars had already been wagered that State U. would win. That's a right well-rounded sum, lousy as it is."

"The whole thing is lousy, the Journal and all decent people hold, because a stadium is supposed to be a place for amateur sports, not a casino for slinky-eyed denizens too lazy or too dishonest to work for a living. Especially should a game be clean when it involves aviation cadets. Gambling on them in this way is a contemptible form of war profiteering. It is the lowest essence of—"

Summers was wound up about it and he let go in vehement style. Toward the end he hung crepe.

"The truth is," wrote he, "Heavy Underwood's absence will just about swing the balance. It was Heavy who, unsung, often made the holes for Norman Dana and Duane Hogan, Coach Miller's two great backs. It was this hefty trio who spiked so many blitz plays that the Aggies tried last Saturday. Loss of any one of the three at this late hour can well wreck the morale of the whole Lincoln team, especially with Pop Miller himself barely out of bed from an illness."

Blythe Miller read it Tuesday morning and almost cried. It was all too true! Yesterday afternoon she had stayed at the athletic field, in Pop's office with Nancy until practice time, and she had tried desperately to be cheerful and gay, hoping it would be contagious. The players tried valiantly, too.

"What of it?" they asked each other. "We can get along without Heavy. He can sit on the bench and watch the fun! Let's go out there and show him we don't need him!"

"Sure, sure!" somebody would steam back, overly hearty. "Who's Heavy Underwood? Been wanting to play center myself! Come on, let's go!"

They swarmed out to practice in that mood, their spirit as false as that of a forced Nazi rally. And the falsity of it began at once to show. Nick O'Day, the sub center, snapped the ball consistently over the backfield's heads. Teddy Kildare, guard, bawled out Big Duane Hogan, who never in his life did anybody a wrong. Duane—bless him—just kept silent and pleaded, with his eyes, for the gang to carry on. Blythe noticed. It was like that all afternoon, no matter how much the players and the assistant coaches labored. Blythe, who knew football thoroughly, went home with her heart in her shoes.

And now, at breakfast Tuesday, even the papers were saying that Lincoln faced grave trouble indeed.

"I am going to work," Pop Miller announced flatly. "And don't you two women try to stop me! Two days is enough to nurse any blankety-blank cold!"

He didn't say blankety-blank, he said something quite a bit stronger. Strong enough to warn Mom Miller and Bly to let him have his way. Deliberately Bly went back into his bedroom with him after eating. She stood against the closed door, silent as he put on coat, tie, overcoat and hat. He glared at her in defiance when he pocketed Duane Hogan's gun.

"Pop," Bly began, gently. "You know you have a lot of friends."

"I have that."

"If a man is in trouble, he—"

"You just mind your own—aw, honey, I don't want to be harsh with you, but don't go asking questions! Kiss me now. . . . Mind!"

She kissed him, and Pop held her close and patted her back.

"I'm going with you," she said. "You belong in your own school."

"Not this week. I took off."

HE knew enough not to buck that. His daughter could be as willful as he. Together they rode a trolley to his office. Nancy Hale was not due until 10. Bly hung up her wraps and began opening his stack of mail, as she had done yesterday morning. She noted that Pop took the pistol from his overcoat and kept it on his person as he sat down. She decided to speak quite frankly.

"Pop, there's something you ought to know. Something I know."

"Yump? What?"

"This." She opened his center drawer. From concealment in a folder, she drew the unsigned mystery note: "You can't get by with that. Say nothing. And be ready."

"It came in yesterday's mail," she added. "And Pop—I didn't show it to Nancy. Or anybody else. I was waiting until you were out of bed. But I guess you understand it. You wanted a gun."

He stared at the paper a long time.

"Yes," he said then, quietly. "I understand it. And I understand now why you've been so worried. You knew more than I thought. But you stop fretting, honey. Your old Pop has been taking care of things for over 50 years. Just wait, and keep mum."

They heard sudden steps in the hall, then, and both started a little involuntarily. Somebody knocked on the door. Pop glanced quickly at Blythe. "Open it," he breathed, "and stand back as you do, just in case."

Strangely confident of him and of herself as well, she obeyed. But then there was a letdown. "Oh . . . Norman!"

There stood Norman Dana, indeed, and for once he was not smiling. His countenance held no look of cockiness or pleasantry, or play.

"Hello, Bly; good morning, Coach."

Pop exhaled audibly. "Come in, son, come in. Glad to see you. We got a week's work to do, and we need some extra planning. Sit down!"

"Pop," Norman said, sliding into a chair. "I just came from Colonel Rutherford, at the field headquarters. The commandant—well, sir, to tell you the truth, they aren't telling it to everybody, but I was pretty close to Heavy Underwood and all. And, Pop, there's evidence that Heavy's plane was sabotaged. Somebody wanted to wreck him! Somebody wanted to get him off our football team!"

Blythe didn't need to hear any more of it. She knew now that the crooked gamblers this time were making doubly sure.

Bobcats Go to Hot Springs to Play Trojans

The Hope High School Bobcats will leave late today for Hot Springs where they battle the strong Trojans tonight in a conference game.

Hot Springs is one of the strongest conference teams in the state and is expected to take the Bobcats by a top-sided score. They defeated El Dorado, which defeated Hope 13-0 early in the season.

The Trojans will not be at top strength because their star triple-threat back, Floyd Holmes, has been benched for the rest of the season due to a shoulder injury. However, it will take more than one man to seriously weaken the Spa eleven.

The Bobcats have steadily improved with each game and are given an outside chance to win if the big J. C. McCullough is clicking. The Hope line showed more power against Camden last week than any other game. With Huddleston and Chance moving down would-be tacklers McCullough is expected to roll up plenty of yardage.

Little Rock, Oct. 30 — (P) — North Little Rock Wildcats and Pine Bluff's Zebras, one-two in the Arkansas High school conference football title race, will all but determine their respective hopes for the 1942 championship tonight.

They meet at Pine Bluff in the headliner of a four-game conference program. The loser will be hard put to get back into the championship picture before the season ends unless there is a sharp reversal of form between now and Thanksgiving.

The Wildcats have lost one game while winning five, the Zebras one while taking four. El Dorado, now leading them in the title race, beat them both.

El Dorado, loser only to Hot Springs in the conference will play Little Rock's off-and-on Tigers here tonight. Hot Springs, almost out of the title picture, meets the fast-improving Hope Bobcats.

Camden gets a chance to chalk up its first conference victory against lowly Malvern.

Playing outside the circuit, Fort Smith goes to Muskogee, Okla., Benton takes on Beebe and Russellville meets strong Subiaco.

New York, Oct. 30 — (P) — The heights of something: Every Thursday noon Columbia's football coaches hold open house for sports writers at a training table on Morningside Heights.

At one end of a long table, Head Coach Lou Little is being badgered to pick a winner between Penn and Army, both of which drubbed his Lions. "I'd be a fool to do it," argues Lou. "They're both good teams. But I will say we should have done better against Penn. Remember when we were losing for one third touchdown? Time and again I've told Governor and Luckman too—never to pass down the middle, but he threw it right at that back."

And Lou starts drawing diagrams on a paper napkin. At the other end of the festive board is Bob Kane, former track star who has come from Ithaca to speak for Cornell and track is the subject.

MacMittell was fed up with running, someone is saying. "He began to fade right after beating odds twice." "Did you hear about our new Columbia star, Len Kopelovich?" asks another voice. "He started running in a compulsory physical ed. class last year. Now he has come out for track and says the only reason is that he wants to beat Gunder Haegg. That's why they call him a promising miler."

You don't learn much at these gatherings, but the ham and eggs are good.

Colan Collected
The Coast Guard seems to be getting a guy with plenty of courage in heavyweight Johnny Colan, who was sworn in today.

Instead of dodging the Friday 13th jinx, Johnny is trying to set a record by fighting on three of those days. He faced Jimmy Webb at Madison Square Garden Friday, Feb. 13, again on March 13 and on Friday, Nov. 13, he's scheduled to take on Nate Bolden at the Chicago stadium.

New York, Oct. 30 — (P) — Taking the weekly whack at the football program and expecting nothing but the worst.

Ohio State-Wisconsin National and sectional title hopes at stake here. Fekete and Sarringhaus vs. Harder and Hirsch. The nod goes to Ohio State.

Alabama-Georgia: This one may settle the southeastern title, subject to later argument from Georgia Tech and LSU. Stringing along with the better offense, Georgia.

Penn-Army: On the theory the Cadets have been playing well within themselves, Army.

Princeton-Yale: Jumping on the Tiger band-wagon, Princeton, hesitatingly.

Stanford-UCLA: Stanford's improving and might surprise but this vote goes to UCLA.

Baylor-Texas Christian: Baylor's defense is tough to crack but the nod belongs to unbeaten TCU.

Navy-Notre Dame: Nothing in Navy's record to show the sailors can cope with Anglo Bertelli at all. Notre Dame.

Georgia Tech-Duke: Tech better make no mistakes. A timid vote for Tech.

Georgetown-Boston College: May be close—but Boston College.

Northwestern - Minnesota: The Gophers seem to be back in winning stride, Minnesota.

Illinois-Michigan: Injuries may hurt the Illini, Michigan.

Iowa Naval-Indiana: Bierman's Naval Cadets have been well rested since the Notre Dame debacle. Iowa Naval.

Grant Lakes-Missouri: No telling what Grant Lakes is going to do next. Missouri, with Bob Steuber, is the more consistent and rate the nod.

Tattooed Chickens
Keep Thieves Away
CHARLESTON, W. Va. (P) — West Virginia poultrymen think they've found a way to put the chicken thief out of business.

A simple, inexpensive method is being used to identify each hen and rooster. They are tattooed with the owner's mark and number.

Each fowl is then checked into the files of the state police, the Department of Agriculture, the state poultrymen's association and the West Virginia university extension service bureau.

Actual tattooing is done on the web of a wing and C. C. Blake, chief of the department of agriculture's poultry division, avers that even if the bird has been killed, plucked and placed in the oven, the tattoo identification will be visible to the trained eye.

How To Relieve Bronchitis

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

CREOMULSION
for Coughs, Chest Colds, Bronchitis

Let's talk it over...

Folks in Arkansas, like folks in Missouri, have a problem that faces decent people everywhere. We are all concerned with the behavior of a few people whose conduct has never been controlled — by conscience, by law, or by other regulation. Almost every neighborhood has its share. These few irresponsibles seem to be selfishly indifferent to the ideals of their neighbors. In an age-old effort to cope with those who resist reform, many laws on prohibition have been written, re-written, revised and discarded. As a nation we have found that prohibition legislation does not reform, but on the contrary it drives the irresponsibles into dark corners, where they become more of a problem than ever. Their law defiance and evasion only magnify the problem of control.

Since the behavior of some patrons gives any tavern that does not exclude them an unsavory reputation, it thus becomes an indirect cause of public criticism of our product. The brewing industry seeks to have such taverns "clean up or close up". Law-abiding taverns and decent patrons everywhere are helping.

We do this in spite of the fact that beer is recognized as a beverage of moderation by the present laws of Arkansas and many other states, and the regulations of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, which approve the sale of beer in canteens.

We do this because we resent deliberate implications that beer is the cause of misbehavior.

We who make wholesome beer are as bitterly opposed as you are to any group that flouts the law. In the fight against vice and law-breaking in every form, we welcome every effort to bring it out into the open.

On Tuesday, November 3rd, you are being asked to vote on a grave question — "INITIATED ACT NO. 1".

Having studied this Act, we find that it is very cleverly written, and we wonder how many voters are aware that it opens the door to the bootlegger. IT IS DESIGNED TO DEPRIVE YOU OF ANY FUTURE CHOICE BETWEEN BEER AND INTOXICANTS. If it passes, it would take away your right to retain beer should you ever want to vote against intoxicants.

Will adoption of this act either reform or control the irresponsibles? Or will they evade the law, drink moonshine and make bootlegging highly profitable?

Let us not forget the tragic era of prohibition which created the bootlegger. Remember him? Remember how he organized underworld vice like it never was organized before or since? Murdered police officers and innocent bystanders alike? Assassinated witnesses to keep them from testifying? Flooded the country with poisonous liquor and made speak-easy drinking popular with young folks? How he mocked the law and debauched morals and spent huge sums on bribery and "fixing"?

Is "Initiated Act No. 1" the answer to your problem and ours — or will it open the door to even greater problems?

"Initiated Act No. 1" is a challenge to the citizens of Arkansas. May you consider its future implications thoughtfully.

ANHEUSER-BUSCH...ST. LOUIS

ATTEND "THE VICTORY RALLY" AT HOPE CITY HALL "TO-NIGHT" FRIDAY NIGHT 7:30 O'CLOCK

"Don't Kid Yourself! We could lose this War!"

MISTER, if you think this war's a cinch, better read your paper or listen to the radio. You'll change your mind—quick.

If you think we're going to march to Berlin and Tokio just because we're right—forget it!

People just as clean and decent as we are—just as righteous—just as patriotic, have been ground to the dust under the hob-nailed boots of other people trained and toughened for one purpose—war.

Choose now. Either we give our boys the planes, tanks, guns, and ships they've got to have to win—or we're letting them march to their defeat and our destruction.

Planes cost money. Tanks don't grow on trees. And the storks don't bring subchasers.

We've got to pay for them. "We" means all of us—including you.

How? By buying WAR BONDS. By putting 10 percent of every dollar we earn into the Pay-Roll Savings Plan. A dime out of every dollar—a dollar out of every ten—every payday. And every time our savings amount to $18.75 we get a Bond, worth $25 in 10 years. That's $4 back for every $3 we put in. Isn't that the least we who stay at home can do to help win the war? Stop and think about it—next time you're tempted to buy something you don't really need. Remember the President's words—"We cannot have all we want if our soldiers and sailors are to have all they need."

And if, every payday, we don't set aside every nickel, dime, or dollar we can possibly scrape together for War Bonds, we're letting our boys down.

That's the truth, every word of it—and we know it!

DO YOU KNOW?

When you buy WAR BONDS, you're saving, not giving! Series E WAR BONDS are worth 33½ percent more in 10 years! You get back $4 for every $3 you invest!

These BONDS, when held to maturity (10 years), yield 2.9 percent per year on your investment, compounded semi-annually!

Joining a Pay-Roll Savings Plan makes saving easy!

Joining your bank's Victory Club (it works like any Thrift or Christmas Club) is a convenient way to save for War Bonds for those who aren't members of a Pay-Roll Savings Plan.

You can have enough money to do a lot of things you'd like to do, and to buy the many things you'll need after the war is over, if you save enough in War Bonds every payday NOW!

You can start buying WAR BONDS by buying War Stamps for as little as 10 cents.

This is the first Patriotic Rally held in the community since the last war. Arrange to come if you have to walk. Every one is invited. It is your patriotic duty to be present and learn:

"WHAT CAN I DO?"
TO HELP WIN THE WAR?
